

NAMHO
National Association of Mining History Organisations

Conference 2019 - Call for papers

Hosted by the Cambrian Mines Trust

4-8th July 2019

Llanafan, Ceredigion, Mid-Wales

(based on the Lisburne Hall)

Mine exploration as a research tool - applications in mining history, geology and archaeology

Mine exploration, using speleological techniques, takes the researcher into a new and potentially rewarding aspect of mining history and archaeology. It also provides a very different view of the geology and mineralogy to that seen at surface.

The lecture programme at NAMHO 2019 seeks to provide an insight into the research potential for mine exploration and those who use their speleological / caving skills to access abandoned mines.

Offers of papers should be sent to Peter Cloughton -
P.F.Cloughton@exeter.ac.uk

Or ring me on 01437 532578

